

M.W.A. MEMBERS TO HEAR ABOUT RATES

Provisions of New Schedule Will be Reviewed at County Meeting Which Will Be Held Here May 1.

ADDRESS BY THE HON. C. F. REMY

State Organizer John D. Volz Will Also Be Present And Speak Upon Work Accomplished in Indiana.

A county meeting of the Modern Woodmen of America will be held in Seymour on Wednesday evening, May 1 at which time the provisions of the new rate schedule adopted at the national conventions of the order in January will be reviewed. The meeting will be held at the Woodmen Hall in the K. of P. building, and as there are almost one thousand members in the twelve different camps in the county, the local Woodmen are expecting a large number to be present.

The meeting will be addressed by Hon. Charles F. Remy, of Indianapolis, who was one of the five national committeemen who prepared the new rate schedule which was adopted by the national convention. John D. Volz, state organizer of the lodge will also be present and make an address.

The members of the local lodge feel that they are very fortunate in securing Mr. Remy at this time, for no Woodman in the United States is better qualified than he to explain the changes in the rates. His position upon the national committee was a most important one, and the fact that the changes submitted by that committee were adopted shows that he is well acquainted with the general conditions of the lodge. The rate question has been given much attention by the Woodmen all over the country and affects over a million and a quarter members.

State Organizer Volz will also make an address upon the rate question and will give a general review of the work which has been accomplished in the state.

A special invitation has been extended to all the camps in the county to attend this meeting and arrangements to entertain several hundred Woodmen are being made.

Mr. Robins is president of the Second District Odd Fellows Association, and is also president of the Loogootee Men's Bible Class, one of the most successful Bible Classes in the country.

BIG REPUBLICAN MEETING IS HELD

Registration Clerks Assemble at Brownstown to Hear Explanation of New Law.

REGISTRATION IS IMPORTANT

Clerks Must Qualify With Inspectors Before Saturday of This Week. List of Republican Clerks.

Practically every republican clerk appointed for the different registration boards in the county was present at the meeting at Brownstown Wednesday, and with the large number of other republicans who were there the meeting resembled a republican rally meeting more than a session of instruction. The clerks were called together by County Chairman George Peter for the purpose of explaining to them the new registration law. Judge John M. Lewis, district chairman of the fourth district was present and make a talk concerning the new law. A number of questions were asked by the clerks and these were answered by Judge Lewis.

There was much enthusiasm shown at the meeting, and the present indications are that there will be a large number of republicans register at the first session of the board on May 9. Several matters of business were transacted yesterday by those present. Gay Bard was elected precinct committeeman from Vernon township in place of L. C. Gillaspie who resigned.

Chairman Peter announces that all the clerks must present their credentials to their inspectors not later than Saturday of this week, so that they can qualify for their work. The clerks must also be present at the place where their board will hold its session on the morning of May 9, at 5 o'clock sharp. It is important that the clerks be present at this hour as several matters of arrangement must be completed before the opening hour.

To register will require but a few moments but it is important that each voter register for failure to do so at one of the three sessions will prohibit such voter from casting his ballot in November. The blanks which must be signed by the voters have not yet been received by the county chairman, but will be forwarded by the state chairman in a short time. These blanks may be secured from the registration board or can be filled out before the voters enter the registration room.

The republican clerks who will sit upon the various registration boards in the county are as follows:

Brownstown Township.
1st. Precinct—Ezra Whitcomb.
2nd. Precinct—Wm. Tuell.
3rd. Precinct—W. C. Shroyer.
4th. Precinct—F. C. Foster.

FORGER DECLARES HIS INNOCENCE

Leonard Brokaw, After Admitting Swindling Charge, Tells Officers He Is Not Guilty.

WAS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE.

Forger, Who Operated in Seymour, Makes Denial of Passing Worthless Paper or Forging Checks.

Although he has pleaded guilty to the charge of swindling and has been sentenced to the state prison for a term of from two to fourteen years, Leonard Brokaw, the forger who made Seymour a visit declared that he is innocent, and has passed no worthless paper to various banks throughout the state. Brokaw plead guilty in the Bartholomew circuit court Tuesday afternoon and was taken to Michigan City today.

Brokaw's plea of innocence, however, is believed to have been made for the benefit of his wife who is heart-broken over the wrongs of her husband.

In speaking of the case the Columbus Republican has the following: Still protesting that he is innocent in spite of the fact that he entered a plea of guilty here, Leonard Brokaw, of Ft. Wayne, will be taken to the state prison at Michigan City this evening. Sheriff Miller expected to start to the state prison with his man tonight if the necessary commitment papers are prepared then.

Brokaw entered a plea of guilty to a charge of swindling a local bank and his sentence is from two to fourteen years. He still asserts that he is entirely innocent of any crime. He says he never forged any checks or passed any worthless paper. He says he entered the plea of guilty because the evidence against him seemed too strong to combat and because he was promised immunity hereafter if he would enter such a plea.

Detective Harry E. Webster, who secured much of the evidence against Brokaw, conferred with the numerous bankers who were here to testify against Brokaw Tuesday and all agreed that if he entered a plea of guilty here and went to prison they would not prosecute him when his time is out. After being told that the one charge here was the only one to be pressed Brokaw decided to enter a plea of guilty and did so. He said he simply did this to make his peace and not because he was actually guilty.

People who have been familiar with the case from the start say they think Brokaw is making his talk about being innocent for his wife's benefit. Mrs. Brokaw and their three children are still here and are all bowed with grief over the tragic end of the case. Mrs. Brokaw was sure her husband was innocent until he pleaded guilty and he is still trying to make her believe that the plea was simply entered as the best way out of the trouble and not because he was actually guilty.

The farewells between Brokaw and his family today were expected to be very affecting. The children were especially moved to tears Tuesday when they saw their father in trouble.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WINS FROM ALUMNI

Graduates Put Up Good Game But Are Beaten in Seven Innings by Score of 13 to 8.

PREPARATIONS FOR H. S. PLAY

High Standard of Work in Term Just Closing—Honor For Classes Announced.

In a spirited base ball game yesterday afternoon between the high school team and an alumni team, the agile athletes of the high school proved too fast for the alumni and walked away with a score of 13 to 8. This was the first game the high school boys have played this spring, and was arranged in order to give them some practice for several battles which will probably be arranged between the local school and other high schools in southern Indiana. Considerable interest was shown in the contest and many of the high school students witnessed the game and assisted in cheering the team to victory. On the alumni team were several of the best base ball players the high school has ever had and the high school believes that in winning this game it has one of the strongest teams for several years.

The line up for the game was as follows:

Alumni
Buntin, c.
Hopewell, c.
Appel, lb.
Hodapp, 2b.
Humphrey, 3b.

The high school is making preparation for the annual meet of the schools Southeastern Indiana Association, which will be held at North Vernon about the middle of next month. The Seymour school will participate in several of the athletic events and also in the debating, reading and oratorical contests. The preliminaries will be held soon to select the students who will represent Seymour at the meet.

Two of the classes of the high school are making preparation to give a play in the near future.

The term which has just closed has been one of the most successful for several years, and the standard of work was very high. The honor rolls for the past term have been completed and are announced.

For the entire school the pupils who held the highest average were:

Katherine Kessler, Horace Ackerman, Chas. Trumbo, Leona Thompson, Mary Mack, Doris Geile, Anna Shields, Ruth Leblane, Henry Wajenberg, Esther Arnold, Harriet Montgomery, Ray Himebaugh.

In the senior class the honor students were:

Leona Thompson, Ruth Leblane, Duncan Reed, Clarence Craig, Frances Switzer, John Eckler, Edna Schwab, Ernest Ballard, Ethel Rottman, Hattie Roeger.

AN ACQUITTAL IS EXPECTED

Jury in the Stibbins Murder Trial Expected to Have The Case by Friday Evening.

EVIDENCE COMPLETED TODAY.

Vincennes Justice Arouses the Ire of the Attorneys for the Defense and Receives Rebuke.

Bloomfield, Ind., April 25.—It is expected that the jury in the Stibbins trial will have the case by Friday evening, and that it will not deliberate long before agreeing on a verdict. There is not much difference in opinion as to what that verdict will be. The public here expects a prompt acquittal of Slater Edward and Ray Stibbins, charged with the murder of their father, George W. Stibbins.

The state closed its rebuttal testimony fifteen minutes after court opened today, and after rebuttal testimony from the defense the argument began.

Miss Gertrude McDonald, who took the testimony before the grand jury at Vincennes, was called by the state in rebuttal to show that Charles Cooper and Mrs. Nancy E. Stibbins testified differently before the grand jury than they did in the case here.

Mr. Iuman brought out the fact that Prosecutor McCormick obtained Miss McDonald's appointment as a stenographer, that she was stenographer for Samuel Emison, one of the attorneys who prosecuted the defendants at the preliminary examination, and that she took the testimony for the state at that examination.

George W. Hazelton, the Vincennes justice of the peace, lawyer and traction line promoter, whose testimony on behalf of the state was disputed by witnesses for the defense, was called to the chair again. He testified that he went to the jail at Vincennes to see the defendants about getting employment to defend them at the request of Claude Bartlow, a cousin of the defendants. On one visit he handed a letter to Edward Stibbins written by Claude Bartlow, urging his employment. Hazelton was anxious to testify and talked so rapidly that Mr. Iuman exclaimed:

"Your honor, it is almost impossible to control this unbridled ass. Won't your honor stop him?"

Judge Henderson told Hazelton that he must give the defense a chance to object to his statements.

He sharply rebuked Hazelton for his manner of testifying and making remarks, and warned him that he must answer the questions put to him in the proper manner. Several controversies between the attorneys caused the judge to rap vigorously for order.

Hazelton, who was sitting some distance from Prosecutor McCormick, motioned for him to come to him, but Shuler shook his head.

Hazelton was the important witness for the state, and Mr. Iuman's efforts in giving him a severe cross-examination was to show that the reason he testified so strongly for the state was because the defendants had refused to accept his frequent demands that they employ him to defend them.

LET CUPID DO THE WORK

Mr. Congdon soon pronounced the words which made them husband and wife, and the happy couple went their way rejoicing.

"The Made-to-Wear Paint"

If you expect to do any painting, you are interested—you should be—in the quality of the paint to be used.

In any given job of painting, labor represents practically two-thirds, material one-third the cost.

It stands to reason that with so much expense in labor, the enduring quality of the paint is all important.

Why have the painting done unless the protection and durability of the job is sought?

How is one to determine the true value and obtain paint that may be depended upon for durability?

HANNA'S GREEN SEAL PAINT IS NOT A SECRET. This paint has the printed formula on every package.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE CITY BOY.

If you will go over the list of the men in your city that have done things you will discover that most of them were brought up in the country.

Why is it?

Because a boy needs wide spaces in which to grow into a man. He needs elbow room. The natural swath of the boy is a wide one. He is attuned to expression and needs to bubble over. He wants vent. In the city he is more or less cabined, cribbed and confined. Poor city chap!

For him are no great fields or shady woods where wanderlust may lead him. For him no company and touch of nature.

He is rude and destructive? What wonder? If he is all boy and worth his rearing he spells Force. And if it is oppressed force means explosion.

His mother scolds. He spoils the furniture, teases the cat and worries his sister. Give him a dime and he will go to a picture show or to the streets—streets that often lead directly to hell.

A boy unspoiled is the finest thing on legs.

The normal boy, under his vest, is affectionate. His heart, if you know where to find it, is bigger than his head. He is, by primal instinct, honest.

The normal boy is four square to all the winds that blow. He stands for fair play. He believes in the square deal. Later on he may lose some of these qualities. Disappointed in his ideals, he may quit wearing his heart on his sleeve, but as a boy he is simply admirable.

Give the city boy his chance.

Send him to the country as often as it may be possible. That is his real habitat.

And encourage him to build his shop in the back yard or in the basement—anywhere but in the parlor. And be sure to give him a room for his very own.

Yes; his room will often be topsy turvey. Let it. He is not a young gentleman. He is a boy. And God bless him!

Let him bring his chums home with him. Let them romp and "raise Cain." Give rudeness vent and it ceases.

And you public officials—

Give the city boy his chance. Give him plenty of room for his playground, room for his ball and his calliope voice. Multiply the parks. Ventilate the schoolroom. Interest him in the gymnasium. And when he goes wrong provide him a juvenile court that understands him and guardians that will help him to become what he ought to be.

HOW TALL IS A WOMAN?

One of the curious provisions of the woman suffrage law of California calls for the registration of the height of women voters. Naturally the registrars are having trouble with it. First of all, it has to be decided where the foot of a woman begins and where her head leaves off. Shall French heels be subtracted, or ought the authorities to assume that it is indelicate for them to consider that women have heels? Are puffs, rats and other apparatus of the sort to be taken into account, or must women discard these affairs when they come up for measurement? Artificial hair is said to have gone out of fashion. We are not prepared to speak with authority on that matter, says the Toledo Blade. But supposing that next year, that fashion of the latter part of the eighteenth century, when women had their hair made up with flour and the whole baked, should be the rage. What would the registrar say when a voter came before him? Would he ask her to remove her bun? Or, being a man of experience, would he merely sigh and credit the elector with 10 inches growth in the course a year?

Most boys have fathers, which is fortunate for the boys themselves and for society. But most fathers perhaps—at any rate, too many of them—fail to recognize fully their obligations in the matter of guiding the thoughts and actions of their sons. They leave too much of that duty to the boys' mothers. Mothers, too, are important, of course, giving the boy a kind of care which they would otherwise lose. But the father, if he be the right sort, can exert an influence which may come from no other source. Is it not worth while? Every boy who goes wrong represents a definite loss to society. To that extent civilization falls: It means a hitch in the plan of the universe which calls for a steady upward climb toward perfection.

The efforts now to save the chestnut trees emphasize nature's revenge for the needless slaughter of the birds. Bird conservation is one of the important factors in forestry, but if human carelessness or wantonness destroys the natural means of tree defenses, it follows that men are left to their own inadequate devices to repair the blunder, in this case worse than a crime.

Thirteen per cent of college girls in a Wisconsin university have been found to be flat-footed. There is no doubt whatever that this is an unlucky percentage, and science is to be asked what it is going to do about it. The higher education is not worth such apparently dire effects.

"Don't you think a woman who does a man's work as well as a man could do it ought to have a man's pay?"

Former Resents Idea That He is Given Vehicle to Express Talent and Genius to World.

"You don't seem to have a very high opinion of the man who wrote the play in which you are appearing."

"Why should I have a high opinion of him?" asked the popular young actor.

"He has given you the opportunity to become a public favorite."

"He has given me the opportunity? My dear sir, he is not responsible for the talent, the genius, the artistic temperament I possess."

"No, but if there were no playwright to provide you with a vehicle how would you find expression for your talent, your genius, your artistic temperament? It seems to me that you owe everything to the man who gives you lines to speak."

"My dear boy, you have a primitive mind—very primitive. You could not drive your automobile if there were no mechanics to make the wheels and the brakes and the engines; but do you feel that you owe all to the besmeared mechanics? Pardon me for a moment while I indulge in thought. It is my favorite recreation."

HIS PURPOSE.

First Senator—What makes you keep declaring that you will never again be a candidate for public office?

Second Senator—Well, I've got to keep saying something in order to prevent my friends from overlooking me as a possible candidate.

A Tender Plea.

"I see that Jack has colored his hair black where it was turning. Why did he do such a foolish thing?"

"Well, his girl asked him to do it, and, of course, no man could refuse a loved one's dying request."

In the Blood.

"Why do American heiresses persist in marrying impecunious noblemen?"

"I suppose with the American woman's instinctive love of bargains, they cannot resist the prospect of getting anything that's reduced."

The Question Today.

"Are you making history?" inquired the Mexican insurgent.

"What a question, general."

"I ask it seriously. Are we making history or just a few films for the moving picture people?"

Average Time.

"Which of these clocks is right?"

"I don't know. We've five clocks. When we want to know the time we add 'em together and divide by five, and even then we're not certain."—London Opinion.

The Only Way.

"I think, dear, I'll make my will."

"Why should you do that? You haven't anything to leave."

"I know; but it seems to be the only way in which I can hope to have a will of my own."

At It Again.

The Doctor—I see there has been some discussion as to whether it should be a Norwegian or an English flag that flies from the south pole.

The Professor—The honor belongs to neither. It should be Polish.

Time to Roost.

"Doctor," said a despairing patient, "I'm in a dreadful way—I can neither lay nor set. What shall I do?"

"Well," said the medical man gravely, "I think you had better roost."

Inexcusable Ignorance.

Rankin (trying to remember)—Who and what are the "gelsha girls?"

Fyle—The gay Shaw girls? I don't know. Why not read his stuff yourself and find out?

Lost Time.

"When you make an engagement, you are always right on the minute keeping it, aren't you?"

"Yes, I have lost a lot of time that way."

Her Untrained Ear.

"Yes, I enjoyed my visit to Boston ever so much." Miss Cahokia was saying. "What a curious—er—brogue they speak there, don't they?"

The Cause.

"I don't look well in a steamer cap."

"Few people do. You see, it is a sort of handy cap."

BREAKING IT GENTLY.

"Dickie, I'm awfully sorry you use tobacco. I don't like it, and mamma simply loathes it. Will you stop when we are married?"

"Isn't that asking a lot, dearie?" asked Dick.

"I wouldn't care for myself," answered the girl, "but you know it makes mamma deathly sick."

"Well, then," he promised, cheerfully, "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll never smoke when your mamma is with us."

She threw her arms around him. "Darling," she muttered, "that's so good of you! I was afraid you'd insist on smoking once in a while after we were married."

Very Awkward.

"You made a mistake in your paper," said the indignant man, entering the editorial sanctum. "I was one of the competitors at the athletic match yesterday, and you have called me the well-known lightweight champion."

"Well, aren't you?" said the editor.

"No, I'm nothing of the kind; and it's confounded awkward, because, you see, I'm a coal merchant."

Revival.

Uncle Ezra—Did you attend any religious services in New York?

Uncle Eben—Yep. I was at what they called a 'revival' of somebody's at one of the theaters, and believe me, Ezzy, judgin' by some of the dancing I saw in that place, them city people do get religion somethin' fierce.—Puck.

HAD TO.

First Tramp—Say, Ragsy, do you ever bathe?

Second Tramp—Sure.

First Tramp—When?

Second Tramp—When I'm in jail.

Deceived.

How brightly beams the sun without! The skies above are blue. We're in a mood to look about And see if spring is due.

Encore.

"What on earth do you keep clapping for? That last singer was awful!"

"I know; but I liked the style of her clothes, and I want to have another look at them."—London Opinion.

Useful at Last.

"Hubby, you have a lock of my hair, haven't you?"

"Next to my heart."

"See if you can match it in some puffs when you go downtown."

Explained.

"How do you explain the peculiar actions of that suffragette?"

"There's a man in the case."

"But she's married."

"Two men."—Judge.

Up to Date.

"Has your son brought back any business methods from London?"

"Oh, yes. He thinks we ought to serve teas afternoons and that all stenographers ought to be blondes."

MAYBE.

Wilson—Oh! yes; she's sure her boy will be president of this country some day.

Bilson—Has she got him down for a second term yet?

Hope He'll Die First.

The man who rocks the boat is hibernating now. About the first of June He'll make his little bow.

The Eternal Question.

"My wife made me what I am!"

"Have you forgiven her yet?"—Satire.

Of Course.

"He is a man of few words."

"You mean?"

"When his wife's around."

TAFT FIRES HIS INITIAL "BOMB"

Roosevelt's Alleged Leniency Toward Trusts Attacked

BROUGHT OUT IN THE SENATE

Documents Relating to the Former President's Attitude Toward the Harvester Trust Are Laid Before the Senate in Answer to Resolution Evidently Prepared With the Full Knowledge of the Administration.

Washington, April 25.—The United States senate has secured documents to show that Theodore Roosevelt when president directed that the suit for the dissolution of the harvester trust then in course of preparation be held up.

"Please do not file the suit until I hear from you," wrote the president to C. J. Bonaparte, his attorney general, after Mr. Roosevelt had a conversation with George W. Perkins, one of the directors of the International Harvester company, and a large stockholder in it.

Apparently Mr. Roosevelt never did hear favorably from his attorney general, for the suit which was in process of preparation failed to materialize in the Roosevelt administration and is about to be begun by the Taft administration unless the harvester company consents to a voluntary dissolution.

The excuse given by President Roosevelt for holding up the proposed suit was that Herbert Knox Smith, his commissioner of corporations, might finish an investigation which he was making into the affairs of the harvester trust. Apparently this investigation never was concluded, for it was only recently—five years later—that the bureau of corporations was gathering material for Attorney General Wickersham's proposed prosecution of the trust.

The introduction of this documentary evidence in the senate marks the beginning of an aggressive personal campaign on the part of the president against his predecessor. It is true that this information was produced by a Democrat, Johnstone of Alabama, but the president's friends undoubtedly had knowledge that such a resolution was to be introduced. In less than three hours after the passage of the resolution all of the documents on file in the department of justice, including Roosevelt's confidential letters, were laid before the senate.

Senator Bristow of Kansas, one of the Roosevelt supporters, interrupted the reading of the attorney general's communication to the senate and asserted that it was very evident that the correspondence was prepared by the attorney general and ready to be transmitted to the senate before this resolution was introduced.

Senator Johnstone denied this, but Bristow insisted that it was an effort to discredit one of the Republican candidates for president. The publication of these letters will be followed to-night by a speech by President Taft in Boston, which will be a severe arraignment of Roosevelt.

THEY KEPT COOL

Bank Robbers Not Disconcerted by Fire of Posse.

Fort Smith, Ark., April 25.—Six bank robbers and about fifty citizens of the town fought a duel for more than two hours, in which time more than 200 shots were exchanged, in the business district of Midland, a mining town thirty miles south of Fort Smith. The bandits robbed the Bank of Midland of $1,500 and under fire made good their escape.

Citizens of the town were awakened by heavy explosions at 2 o'clock in the morning. Scores of men hurried to the downtown district, and as they ran toward the bank building they were met by a volley of shots fired by four robbers stationed behind buildings outside the bank. In the excitement that followed the citizens armed themselves, returned to the scene under cover and began shooting in the direction of the fire, flashes coming from the concealed robbers' guns.

Explosion after explosion occurred in the bank, and as the battle raged eight charges of nitroglycerine were used in blowing open the safe and vault. After gathering up all the currency in sight the robbers set fire to the papers in the wrecked vault. The building caught fire and while the blaze was being extinguished the robbers escaped.

Buyer Forger Sentenced.

Columbus, Ind., April 25.—Leonard Brokaw, aged thirty-six, said to be one of the most prolific forgers caught in Indiana in several years, entered a plea of guilty in the Bartholomew circuit court and was sentenced to serve from two to fourteen years in the state prison.

STOKERS INSIST ON BETTER LIFE BOATS

Strike at Southampton Delays Olympic's Sailing.

Southampton, April 25.—Just before the vessel's sailing time, complaining of the life-saving facilities on board the liner Olympic, sister ship of the lost Titanic, 300 stokers struck, declaring the additional life-saving equipment inadequate.

The firemen who quit the Olympic state one of their number pushed his thumbs through the canvas of one of the collapsible boats, and therefore they decided not to take any risk. After a delay of an hour, the liner moved down the river, where she anchored.

The Olympic with her 1,400 passengers is still anchored at Spithead, waiting for her complement of firemen. The vessel got that far with the help of forty engineers who had been loaned by the American line. The striking firemen, notwithstanding the fact that they are liable to arrest for mutiny, are unyielding and are supported by the officials of the union.

The board of trade inspector who examined the collapsibles insisted they are all right and offers to accompany the men on the Olympic and undergo any test they may select.

BIG DAM BROKE

Many Lives Saved by Telephone Operator's Prompt Act.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., April 25.—The new concrete dam of the Witherbee-Sherman company at Witherbee, Essex county, went out, flooding a large portion of Witherbee village, completely inundating Moriah Center and doing property damage estimated at upward of $100,000. The lives of several hundred people were saved by the prompt action of a telephone operator in the Port Henry exchange, who notified every subscriber up the valley that the dam had burst, in time for them and their friends to reach safety in the hills.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

The British house of commons has taken steps preliminary to the investigation of the loss of the steamship Titanic.

President Taft is making several campaign speeches in Massachusetts today in advocacy of his candidacy for renomination.

In view of the Titanic disaster, the kaiser has initiated a movement to establish international regulations for life-saving on passenger ships.

Dixie Kid, an American fighter, knocked out Bernard, a French fighter, in the tenth round of a match for the world's welterweight championship at Paris.

Government ownership of the wireless telegraph systems of the country is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Berger of Wisconsin, the Socialist member.

The proposed constitution of Alaska is granted authority to authorize woman's suffrage in an amendment incorporated in the Alaska government bill passed by the house.

Ten delegates pledged to vote for W. H. Taft until released, were elected to the Chicago national convention by the Republicans of Rhode Island in convention assembled.

Among the passengers on the lost Titanic was Thomas Andrews, Jr., a director in the firm of Harland & Wolff of Belfast, who built the Titanic, and who was himself in immediate charge of the designing and construction of the vessel.

The interstate commerce commission has handed down a decision in favor of five coal mining companies and against the Pennsylvania railroad, awarding reparation for damages resulting from discriminations practiced by the railroad in distribution of coal cars.

KNOW THE BERGS WERE OUT AHEAD

Titanic's Officers Were Fully Aware of Their Peril.

BUT THEY KEPT ON FULL SPEED

Senate Investigating Committee Now Has Evidence That Captain Smith of the Ill-Fated Liner Had Been Informed of Proximity of Ice, but Despite This Did Not Lessen the Speed of His Great Floating Palace.

Washington, April 25.—It was definitely established by testimony given before the senate special investigating committee that Captain Smith and several of the officers of the Titanic were expecting to encounter ice on their course about 11 o'clock on the fatal Sunday night.

This fact was brought out in the testimony of Second Officer Lightoller, who, when recalled to the stand, said that he had been shown a message by the captain, which gave the latitude and longitude of ice reported to the Titanic by another ship. He told the committee he worked out by means of the chart the time at which the Titanic would probably be nearest this ice, and found it was to be expected about 11 o'clock. He so informed the captain and Officer Murdoch, who relieved him at 10. Despite this, however, he admitted the speed of the vessel was not lessened and the only precaution he took, he said, was to tell the lookout men to keep a sharp watch for ice until daybreak.

No Women Left, He Says.

Asked if there were any women left on the deck of the Titanic when he left the ship, Lightoller said that on the port side there were none and that Shemmings, a good, reliable man who was with witness, went the whole length of the ship on the starboard side and reported that he saw no women on the boat deck except two who were standing amidships on the bridge. They were doing nothing and making no effort to get to any boat. Witness declared that Mr. Ismay, while on the Carpathia, seemed obsessed by the idea that he ought to have gone down with the ship. He was told on the Carpathia that Mr. Wild, one of the officers of the Titanic, a big powerful man, had ordered Mr. Ismay into a boat after telling him there were no more women on the ship, and Mr. Ismay demurring, Wild bundled him into the boat.

Officer Lowe of the Titanic startled the hearers by declaring that he waited in his lifeboat until "the drowning people had thinned out" before going back to pick up any survivors. He explained that it would have been suicide for all in his boat to have gone back while 1,600 people were struggling for their lives in the waters about the Titanic; that they would have swamped his lifeboat. He also told of the rescues he made, and cleared up the stories about the use of revolvers by the Titanic's officers.

Captain Denies It.

Senator Smith, acting upon advice received through the representative of a Toronto newspaper, enlisted the aid of the Canadian government in investigating the report that the Canadian Pacific line steamer Mount Temple, now at St. Johns, N. B., was within sight of the Titanic when she sank. The captain of the Mt. Temple denied this in a telegram to the senator, but it was arranged that a Canadian commission should take his deposition before he sails from St. Johns.

J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star line, who escaped from the Titanic in a lifeboat, accompanied by White Star officials and officers of the Titanic, visited the British embassy, and it was persistently reported that they had entered protest against their treatment at the hands of the committee. This report was denied by the persons concerned, both at the embassy and by Mr. Ismay. A request was made that the sailors, who had testified, be permitted to return home, but Senator Smith refused to grant such permission.

Figures Officially Given.

London, April 25.—Sidney Buxton, chairman of the board of trade, stated in the house of commons that there were 2,207 persons on the Titanic when she sailed for New York. Of this number 703 had been saved, making the total number lost 1,504. There were 3,336 mailbags and fifty-two parcel postbags lost.

PRINCESS CANTACUZENE

Daughter of Gen. Grant Home to Attend Father's Funeral.

TAFT WILL ATTEND THE GRANT FUNERAL

Many Dignitaries to Be Present Tomorrow.

New York, April 25.—Arrangements have about been completed for the funeral tomorrow of General Frederick D. Grant. His daughter, the Countess Cantacuzene, has arrived from her home in Russia. The funeral had been delayed to allow her to attend. She will probably remain in this country a couple of weeks.

The services will take place at the chapel on Governor's Island tomorrow at 10:30. These will be conducted by the Rev. E. B. Smith, the chaplain, who will be assisted by Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago. A special train will take the body of General Grant to West Point, where the burial will take place in the afternoon.

President Taft, Vice President Sherman and Major General Leonard Wood are expected up from Washington to attend the services. The men who are to be pallbearers are Brigadier General William Crozier, Brigadier General H. G. Sharpe, Andrew Carnegie, Hamilton Fish, Dr. Hobart Abbe, William A. Purfilington, Colonel H. E. Robinson, Major General F. V. Greene, Colonel R. M. Thompson, Senator Root, Colonel O. L. Hein, H. W. Taft, Major General T. H. Barry, General Horace Porter, Herman H. Kohlsaat and Brigadier General Tasker Bliss.

Knapp, presiding judge of the United States court of commerce, who are endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the controversy between the railroads and the engineers are holding a conference with the representatives of the railroads today and will meet the engineers later.

Missouri Republicans Split.

St. Louis, April 25.—The state Republican convention, which assembled here today, is split on the contests instituted in fifteen counties and the Sixth ward of St. Louis, which involves the seating of 203 delegates. The decision on these contests means the control of the state convention either for Taft or Roosevelt, and it is probable there will be two conventions.

London Responding Generously.

London, April 25.—The lord mayor's fund for the Titanic's sufferers amounts to $690,000. The total of all funds now open is $950,000.

STRONG APPEAL AGAINST SPORTS

Grand Army Decries Desecration of Memorial Day.

ASKS THE PEOPLE TO PROTEST

In the Annual G. A. R. Order For the Observance of Memorial Day, Department Commander Waugh Makes an Appeal Against the Growing Custom of Turning the Day Over to All Sorts of Sport.

Indianapolis, April 25.—In the annual G. A. R. order for the observance of Memorial day, issued by Dan Waugh, department commander, an appeal is made to the veterans and to the general public to voice their protest against desecration of the day by races, sports, etc. All G. A. R. posts are called on to try to influence the citizens of the communities to refrain from taking part in any sports on that day, and to refrain from contributing to them in any way. The appeal was issued in compliance with a resolution adopted by the national G. A. R. in its meeting last year in Rochester, N. Y. Prompt and unified action is asked to check the growing tendency toward the desecration of the day.

As usual, the exercises for the day, according to the order, will include the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The reading of General Logan's general order of 1865, when the first Memorial day was observed, has also been made a part of the official program. All posts are requested to arrange for memorial services in churches on the Sunday preceding Memorial day. A departure this year will be the tolling of bells from 12 o'clock to 12:05 o'clock on Memorial day, when flags shall be placed at half-mast, and all veterans shall stand with uncovered heads.

A SECOND CALL

State Needs More Money to Meet Bills Due in May.

Indianapolis, April 25.—Treasurer of State W. H. Vollmer has announced that it will be necessary to issue a second call for advance payments to the state treasury from county treasurers. The call will probably be issued some time in May, though no date has been set for the meeting of the state board of finance, which has authority to make the call. A call was issued early this month for an advance payment, and payments were made, but the county treasurers failed to send in as much by approximately $150,000 as the state authorities expected.

The state authorities so worded their April call as to ask for 25 per cent of the moneys in the state and benevolent funds collected by the counties and due the state not later than June 30. Some of the counties, the state authorities say, interpreted the call to mean merely 25 per cent of the amount on hand.

The amount received from the call will pay the April bills, due from the 1st to the 15th of May.

Returned Home Unexpectedly.

Hammond, Ind., April 25.—Tipped off by a friend, whom he had employed as a detective to watch his wife, Michael Treschek of Indiana Harbor hurried home Tuesday night and found Jack McGregor, a star boarder, kissing his wife. Treschek stabbed McGregor repeatedly in his face and body. All were arrested.

"Joke" Fatal For Two.

Logansport, Ind., April 25.—Leona Ehlinger, aged sixteen, who was shot by her lover, Otto Glenn Brown, three weeks ago, is dead at St. Joseph's hospital. After shooting the girl Brown killed himself. A death pact, signed by both, was found in his grip. The girl acknowledged she had signed it, but said it was a joke.

Deadly Bolt From Clear Sky.

Logansport, Ind., April 25.—Elmer Robbins, aged forty, living ten miles north of Logansport, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The lightning came from almost a clear sky. There was no storm.

Misrepresented Their Ages.

Linton, Ind., April 25.—A jail sentence of twenty-one days was given John McCorkle and Jonah Stiff of this city, on a charge of representing themselves as being of legal age, when they sought liquor.

She Was Despondent.

Laporte, Ind., April 25.—Despondent over ill health, Mrs. William Walkshaw, aged fifty, wife of a physician, committed suicide by drinking poison.

Cummins Still in the Ring.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., April 25.—The Republican state convention instructed Iowa's four delegates-at-large to the national convention for W. H. Taft by a vote of 764 to 720 for Senator Cummins. Asked if he would withdraw from the presidential race, Senator Cummins replied: "I have been knocked down and dragged out, but I never withdraw." The result in the state contest is that of Iowa's delegation of twenty-six votes, Taft has sixteen and Cummins ten.

HOW GIRLS MAY AVOID PERIODIC PAINS

The Experience of Two Girls Here Related For The Benefit of Others.

Rochester, N. Y.—"I have a daughter 13 years old who has always been very healthy until recently when she complained of dizziness and cramps every month, so bad that I would have to keep her home from school and put her to bed to get relief.

"After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound too highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DUNHAM, 311 Exchange St., Rochester, N. Y.

Stoutsville, Ohio.—"I suffered from headaches, backache and was very irregular. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I found relief. I am only sixteen years old, but I have better health than for two or three years. I cannot express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had taken other medicines but did not find relief."—Miss CORA B. FOSNAUGH, Stoutsville, Ohio, R. F. D., No. 1.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for their daughters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If your hair is losing color or coming out, start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and see what a change it will make in a few days' time.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.

THE NEED OF WOMEN MISSIONARIES

By Edward A. Marshall,

Director of Missionary Course of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—And the angel answered and said unto the women, go quickly and tell his disciples that He is risen from the dead.—Matt. 28:5-7.

The condition of heathen women in foreign lands today demands that the

in this lies a significant fact that it was in his purpose to have womankind ever telling the Gospel to the women of the race. One of the reasons why the Christian women of the world shall be foremost in their evangelization. Christ made a woman the first messenger of his resurrection and evangelization of the women of the world must be done by women who have accepted Christ is because they can be reached by women only. It is a common saying that men do not understand women. Evidences of this have been presented in the thousands of divorce cases and oft repeated family troubles which are commonly reported in these days. If this be true in civilized countries, where the grace of God modifies the harshness of human life, how much more must it be true among the heathen, who have no spiritual or moral standards such as we have, and no divine power to assist them in living righteous lives.

There are no women in foreign lands who will open their hearts to men. Being very shy and suspicious, they are often reluctant to do this even to the missionary women who visit them. In fact, such a network of suspicious fears has been woven around the lives of women in non-Christian lands that they shrink from every foreigner who would pry into the secrets of their inner life.

It would be entirely improper for a man to visit the home of any native woman in any non-Christian land, even should she be a member of the church. So rigid are the customs that often in case of illness, the male doctor is not permitted to see the female patient. A missionary doctor in China was once asked to visit a Chinese home to prescribe for a sick wife. When he insisted on seeing the patient, the husband remonstrated. However, when he found that no relief could be given without examination, such as the feeling of the pulse, he hastened to her room, tied a twined string around her wrist and passed the end out of the window to the doctor, telling him to take hold of it and see if she had fever. There are thousands of women in Asia who would rather die than let a man see their faces.

Over most of the territory from Japan through Korea, China, Siam, Burma, India and on to Palestine and Turkey, women are shut apart in places called the "woman's apartment." In poor Indian homes, this secluded portion of the house is made by hanging a sari of coarse piece of cloth across one part of the room, thus forming a retreat for the women when men come to visit their husbands.

The women of the Orient are guarded as though they were untrustworthy and as though they were unworthy of human privileges, or were in capable of exercising proper management of the family affairs.

Under such conditions as these, it can be easily seen to be impossible for the men of the mission stations to preach the gospel to the quarter of a billion women living in the Orient; it must be done by women.

In the first place, the women of these non-Christian lands need the gospel for their own sake. The soul of a Hindoo or Chinese woman is as truly precious in the sight of God as that of any other woman, for he does not look on the outward appearance; whether the person be black or white, or whether she be dressed in a calico sari or a sealskin cloak, whether she eats rice with her fingers off a banana leaf or dainty delicacies from cut-glass ware.

Another reason why the women of the Orient must be reached is because they support and maintain the religious systems of the countries in which they live.

It must be readily seen that the hundreds of millions of women in Asia must perish without the gospel if the women of Christian lands do not respond to the call of Christ and carry his message into their homes. The response which these women give to the missionary lady who asks for admission to their homes is a guarantee for untold usefulness for any Christian woman who can find it in her heart to take them the words of life. In the non-Christian lands women are often so anxious to hear the message concerning the "new way" that they will listen with intense eagerness for a longer period than the missionary is able to speak. With such an open door of blessing offered to the women of America who have come to know Christ can there be any trade or profession which would prevent one from entering the door with the true message of salvation?

MAY HAVE 1,000 MILE RANGE

Marconi Expert Says Ceylon Station Will Be Best in East—First Message in a Month.

Colombo.—Mr. Rice, the Marconi expert, who came to Ceylon recently to superintend the erection of the new wireless station, says the site is excellent, although a long way out, and that the station, when completed, will be one of the most up to date in the east. The apparatus is of the best, and includes the latest inventions. The station will have a guaranteed range over water of 450 miles. At night, he thinks, under favorable conditions, this distance will be exceeded considerably, and he puts a range of 1,000 miles as not outside the realms of possibility. He considers that both Bombay and Calcutta may occasionally be reached, and that ships in Madras harbor should be communicated with without difficulty.

The work of erecting the masts is progressing very satisfactorily. Barring untoward events, the job should be finished in about four months. Two steel masts will be put up, both 270 feet in height, these being two of the highest erected by the Marconi company. They will be built in sections of ten feet, and as some forty feet is up already, it is anticipated that the erection of each will take about a month. When both masts are up the building should be ready for the installation of the apparatus, which work will then be undertaken.

The first message should be sent off in about four months' time. The first attempt, Mr. Rice says, will probably be to communicate with a warship in Madras harbor, if one happens to be there at the time.

SEXTONS STRIKE FOR WAGES

Hard Work to Dig Graves, Say "Skilled" Diggers to Trustees.

London.—The strike epidemic which for the last eighteen months has been a daily menace to the welfare of Great Britain has now invaded the cemetery.

Grave diggers at the Western Necropolis, Lambhill and St. Kenigern's burying grounds, Glasgow, have struck work altogether, and are now picketing the approaches to the cemetery gates. They demand decreased hours of work, an increase of three shillings a week in wages and six days annual holiday. "The whole thing is a farce," said an official. "Grave diggers," he said, "work nine hours in summer and seven and a half in winter. Certain men are required to work on Saturday afternoon and on Sundays, but for this they receive four shillings each, whether for opening or filling in graves."

The official said the men's wages averaged thirty shillings, which was excellent for unskilled labor, to say nothing of tips. There has been no difficulty in filling the places of the strikers, said the official, and work was proceeding as usual. No funerals would require postponement. The strikers claim to be skilled laborers and allege that "black leg" grave diggers are making a "sad mess of things."

They also insist that their work should be done with decorum, as the feelings of mourners should not be harrowed by bungling at the graveside, which they say is sure to happen if the duty of filling a grave is done by unskilled laborers.

SCHOOL HEAD GREAT WALKER

Dr. John H. Finley of New York College Tramps From Elizabeth, N. J., to Princeton.

Elizabeth, N. J.—Dr. John H. Finley, president of the College of the City of New York, has suddenly stepped into the limelight as a long-distance pedestrian. Friends told how Dr. Finley started out on a little walk recently to refresh himself after a strenuous day, and ended up a few hours later with thirty miles of ground to his credit.

The president presided over a gathering in honor of Grover Cleveland at Cleveland's birthplace, Caldwell, N. J. After the exercises Dr. Finley started back to New York in company with Mrs. Cleveland, Dr. Van Dyke and others. Reaching the city, however, he decided that he needed an antidote to the day's mental wear and tear, so he started out on foot for Princeton, where he arrived at 8:00 a. m.

CHANCE FOR OLD FIDDLERS

Merchants of Topeka, Kan., Offer $1,000 in Prizes Among Kind That Stamp Feet in Playing.

Topeka, Kan.—If there are any of the old-time fiddlers, of the kind that stamps his foot and wags his head as he plays "Ole Zip Coon" or "Turkey in the Straw," in the territory surrounding Topeka, they will have the chance to divide more than $1,000 worth of prizes. The merchants here arranged the contest to be held in Topeka's auditorium and the prizes range from a $300 piano for the best fiddler to a 35-cent shirt for the worst one.

Has Prepared 1,000,000 Chops.

London.—Of very few men can it truthfully be said: "He has cooked a million chops." Yet William of Edwards in Fishmonger alley, Fenchurch street, who will presently celebrate the jubilee of his professional career, is believed to have cooked 1,500,000. About 10,000 of these he has eaten himself.

Are You Nervous?

What makes you nervous? It is the weakness of your womanly constitution, which cannot stand the strain of the hard work you do. As a result, you break down, and ruin your entire nervous system. Don't keep this up! Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from purely vegetable ingredients. It acts gently on the womanly organs, and helps them to do their proper work. It relieves pain and restores health, in a natural manner, by going to the source of the trouble and building up the bodily strength.

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Grace Fortner, of Man, W. Va., took Cardui. This is what she says about it: "I was so weak and nervous, I could not bear to have anyone near me. I had fainting spells, and I lost flesh every day. The first dose of Cardui helped me. Now, I am entirely cured of the fainting spells, and I cannot say enough for Cardui, for I know it saved my life." It is the best tonic for women.

Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to women? Take Cardui. It will help you. Ask your druggist.

Registration Law.

The registration law is attracting considerable attention this year and is published below in a condensed form.

A voter is a male citizen who will be 21 years of age or over on day of election who is native born or naturalized, and has legal residence in his precinct, county and state. The election this year occurs on Tuesday, Nov. 5th, so a person born on Nov. 6th 21 years previous is a legal voter. No man can vote without having previously registered.

A voter must be present in person to register.

A voter registers but once in precinct where he votes.

If a voter should change voting places, state, county, township or precinct he must register in one to which he moves and if previously registered, bring a certificate of such previous registry from County Auditor under signature and seal.

The Registration board will hold three sessions each year (in which elections occur) in each precinct in May, September and October. The first registration this year will be on Thursday, May 9th, and may last for three days if found necessary to accommodate the voters. The other two will be on Friday, September 6th, and Monday, October 7th, for only one day each. The hours for registering are 5 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m. on registration days.

Registration blanks will be left at different places in each precinct that they may be obtained previous to day of registrations. A supply will also be on hands at the place of registration on days for registering.

A person who cannot write in English can sign in their own language, but must have signature of some one in English as attesting witness.

Force of Advertising.

"First attract the reader's attention, then arouse his interest and make him read your advertisement, but don't stop there, but go a step farther and make the consumer desire what you advertise, and have him make a resolve to go and buy it," said Prof. R. S. Butler, assistant professor of business administration of the University of Wisconsin, in his lecture on "Printed Salesmanship," before the Ad club at the St. Charles hotel, Milwaukee.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Dog-on Dog Again.

As the conductor left the Mallorys to their own devices, it rushed over him anew what sacrilege had been attempted—a fool bride had asked him to stop the Trans-American of all trains!—to go shopping of all things!

He stormed into the smoking room to open the safety valve of his wrath, and found the porter just coming out of the buffet cell with a tray, two hollow-stemmed glasses and a bottle swaddled in a napkin.

"Say, Ellsworth, what in — do you suppose that female back there wants?—wants me to hold the Trans-American while—"

But the porter was in a flurry himself. He was about to serve champagne, and he cut the conductor short:

"Scuse me, boss, but they's a lovin' couple in the stateroom forward that is in a powerful hurry for this. I can't talk to you now. I'll see you later." And he swaggered off, leaving the door of the buffet open.

The conductor paused to close it, glanced in, started, stared, glared, roared: "What's this! Well, I'll be a dog smuggled in here! I'll break that coon's head. Come out of there, you miserable ornary bound." He seized the incredulous Snoozeleums by the scruff of his neck, growling, "It's you for the baggage car ahead," and dashed out with his prey, just as Mallory, now getting new bearings on Marjorie's character, spoke across the rampart of his Napoleonically folded arms:

"Well, you're a nice one!—making violent love to a conductor before my very eyes. A minute more and I would have—"

She silenced him with a snap: "Don't you speak to me! I hate you! I hate all men. The more I know men the more I like—!" This reminded her, and she asked anxiously: "Where is Snoozeleums?"

Mallory, impatient at the shift of subject, snapped back: "Oh, I left him in the buffet with the waiter. What I want to know is how you dare to—"

"Was it a colored waiter?"

"Of course. But I'm not speaking of—"

"But suppose he should bite him?"

"Oh, you can't hurt those nigger waiters. I started to say—"

"But I can't have Snoozeleums biting colored people. It might not agree with him. Get him at once."

Mallory trembled with suppressed rage like an overloaded boiler, but he gave up and growled: "Oh, Lord, all right. I'll get him when I've finished—"

"Go get him this minute. And bring the poor darling back to his mother."

"His mother! Ye gods!" cried Mallory, wildly. He turned away and dashed into the men's room with a furious: "Where's that damned dog?"

He met the porter just returning. The porter smiled: "He's right in beach, sir," and opened the buffet door. His eyes popped and his jaw sagged: "Why, I left him here just a minute ago."

"You left the window open, too," Mallory observed. "Well, I guess he's gone."

The porter was panic-stricken: "Oh, I'm terrible sorry, boss, I wouldn't have lost that dog for a fortune. If you was to hit me with a axe I wouldn't mind."

To his utter befuddlement, Mallory grinned and winked at him, and murmured: "Oh, that's all right. Don't worry." And actually laid half a dollar in his palm. Leaving the black lids batting over the starting eyes, Mallory pulled his smile into a long face and went back to Marjorie like an undertaker: "My love, prepare yourself for bad news."

Marjorie looked up, startled and apprehensive: "Snoozeleums is ill. He did bite the darkey."

"Worse than that—he—he—fell out of the window."

"When!" she shrieked, "in heaven's name—when?"

"He was there just a minute ago, the waiter says."

Marjorie went into instant hysterics, wringing her hands and sobbing: "Oh, my darling, my poor child—stop the train at once!"

She began to pound Mallory's shoulders and shake him frantically. He had never seen her this way either. He was getting his education in advance. He tried to calm her with inept words: "How can I stop the train? Now, dearie, he was a nice dog, but after all, he was only a dog."

She rounded on him like a panther: "Only a dog! He was worth a dozen men like you. You find the conductor at once, command him to stop this train—and back up! I don't care if he has to go back ten miles. Run, tell him at once. Now, you run!"

Mallory stared at her as if she had gone mad, but he set out to run somewhere, anywhere. Marjorie paced up and down distractedly, tearing her hair and moaning: "Snoozeleums, Snoozeleums! My child. My poor child!"

At length her wildly roving eyes noted the bell rope. She stared, pondered, nodded her head, clutched at it, could not reach it, jumped for it several times in vain, then seized a chair, swung it into place, stood up in it, gripped the rope, and came down on it with all her weight, dropping to the floor and jumping up and down in a frenzied dance. In the distance the engine could be heard faintly whistling, whistling for every pull.

The engineer, far ahead, could not imagine what unheard-of crisis could bring about such mad signals. The fireman yelled:

"I bet that crazy conductor is attacked with an epileptic fit."

But there was no disputing the command. The engine was reversed, the air brakes set, the sand run out and every effort made to pull the iron horse, as it were, back on its haunches.

The grinding, squealing, jolting, shook the train like an earthquake. The shrieking of the whistle froze the blood like a woman's cry of "Murder!" in the night. The women among the passengers echoed the screams. The men turned pale and braced themselves for the shock of collision. Some of them were mumbling prayers. Dr. Temple and Jimmie Wellington, with one idea in their dissimilar souls, dashed from the smoking room to go to their wives.

Ashton and Wedgewood, with no one to care for but themselves, seized windows and tried to fight them open. At last they bugged a sash and knelt down to thrust their heads out.

"I don't see a beastly thing ahead," said Wedgewood, "except the heads of other fools."

"We're slowing down though," said Ashton, "she stops! We're safe. Thank God!" And he collapsed into a chair. Wedgewood collapsed into another, gasping: "Whatever are we safe from, I wonder?"

The train-crew and various passengers descended and ran alongside the train asking questions. Panic gave way to mystery. Even Dr. Temple came back into the smoking room to finish a precious cigar he had been at work on. He was followed by Little Jimmie, who had not quite reached his wife when the stopping of the train put an end to his excuse for chivalry. He was regretfully mumbling:

"It would have been such a good shams to shave my life's wife—I mean my—I don't know what I mean." He sank into a chair and ordered a drink; then suddenly remembered his vow, and with great heroism, rescinded the order.

Mallory, finding that the train was checked just before he reached the conductor, saw that official's bewildered wrath at the stoppage and had a fearsome intuition that Marjorie had somehow done the deed. He hurried back to the observation room, where he found her charging up and down, still distraught. He paused at a safe distance and said:

"The train has stopped, my dear. Somebody rang the bell."

"I guess somebody did!" Marjorie answered, with a proud toss of the head. "Where's the conductor?"

"He's looking for the fellow that pulled the rope."

"You go tell him to back up—and slowly, too."

"No, thank you!" said Mallory. He was a brave young man, but he was not bearing the conductors of stopped expresses. Already the conductor's voice was heard in the smoking room, where he appeared with the rush and roar of a Bashan bull.

"Well!" he bellowed, "which one of you guys pulled that rope?"

"It was nobody here, sir," Dr. Temple meekly explained. The conductor transfixed him with a baleful glare: "I wouldn't believe a gambler on oath. I bet you did it."

"I assure you, sir," Wedgewood interposed, "he didn't touch it. I was heah."

The conductor waved him aside and charged into the observation room, followed by all the passengers in an awe-struck rabble. Here, too, the conductor thundered: "Who pulled that rope? Speak up somebody!"

Mallory was about to sacrifice himself to save Marjorie, but she met the conductor's black rage with the withering contempt of a young queen: "I pulled the old rope. Whom did you suppose?"

The conductor almost dropped with apoplexy at finding himself with nobody to vent his immense rage on, but this pink and white slip. "You!" he gulped, "well, what in— Say, in the name of—why, don't you know it's a penitentiary offense to stop a train this way?"

Marjorie tossed her head a little higher, grew a little calmer: "What do I care? I want you to back up."

The conductor was reduced to a wet rag, a feeble echo: "Back up—the train up?"

"Yes, back the train up," Marjorie answered, resolutely, "and go slowly till I tell you to stop."

The conductor stared at her a moment, then whirled on Mallory: "Say, what in hell's the matter with your wife?"

Mallory was saved from the problem of answering by Marjorie's abrupt change from a young Tsarina rebuking a serf, to a terrified mother. She flung out imploring palms and with a gush of tears pleaded: "Won't you please back up? My darling child fell off the train!"

The conductor's rage fell away in an instant. "Your child fell off the train!" he gasped. "Good Lord! How old was he?"

With one hand he was groping for the bell cord to give the signal, with the other he opened the door to look back along the track.

"He was two years old," Marjorie sobbed.

"Oh, that's too bad!" the conductor groaned. "What did he look like?"

"He had a pink ribbon round his neck."

"A pink ribbon—oh, the poor little fellow! the poor little fellow!"

"And a long curly tail."

The conductor swung round with a yell: "A curly tail!—your son?"

"My dog!" Marjorie roared back at him.

The conductor's voice cracked weakly as he shrieked: "Your dog! You stopped this train for a fool dog?"

"He wasn't a fool dog," Marjorie retorted, facing him down, "he knows more than you do."

The conductor threw up his hands: "Well, don't you women beat—!" He studied Marjorie as if she were some curious freak of nature. Suddenly an idea struck into his daze: "Say, what kind of a dog was it?—a measly little cheese-hound?"

"He was a noble, beautiful soul with wonderful eyes and adorable ears."

The conductor was growing weaker and weaker: "Well, don't worry. I got him. He's in the baggage car."

Marjorie stared at him unbelievably. The news seemed too gloriously beautiful to be true. "He isn't dead—Snoozeleums is not dead!" she cried, "he lives! He lives! You have saved him." And once more she flung herself upon the conductor. He tried to bat her off like a gnat, and Mallory came to his rescue by dragging her away and shoving her into a chair. But she saw only the noble conductor: "Oh, you dear, good, kind angel. Get him at once."

"He stays in the baggage car," the conductor answered, firmly and as he supposed, finally.

"But Snoozeleums doesn't like baggage cars," Marjorie smiled. "He won't ride in one."

"He'll ride in this one or I'll wring his neck."

"You fiend in human flesh!" Marjorie shrank away from him in horror, and he found courage to seize the bell rope and yank it viciously with a sardonic: "Please, may I start this train?"

The whistle tooted faintly. The bell began to hammer, the train to creak and writhe and click. The conductor pulled his cap down hard and started forward. Marjorie seized his sleeve: "Oh, I implore you, don't consign that poor sweet child to the horrid baggage car. If you have a human heart in your breast, hear my prayer."

The conductor surrendered unconditionally: "Oh, Lord, all right, all right. I'll lose my job, but if you'll keep quiet, I'll bring him to you." And he slunk out meekly, followed by the passengers, who were shaking their heads in wonderment at this most amazing feat of this most amazing bride.

When they were alone once more, Marjorie, as radiant as April after a storm, turned her sunny smile on Mallory:

"Isn't it glorious to have our little Snoozeleums alive and well?"

But Mallory was feeling like a March day. He answered with a sly chuckle: "You care more for the dog than you do for me."

"Why shouldn't I?" Marjorie answered with wide eyes, "Snoozeleums never would have brought me on a wild goose elopement like this. Heaven knows he didn't want to come."

Mallory repeated the indictment: "You love a dog better than you love your husband."

"My what?" Marjorie laughed, then she spoke with lofty condescension: "Harry Mallory, if you're going to be jealous of that dog, I'll never marry you the longest day I live."

"So you'll let a dog come between us?" he demanded.

"I wouldn't give up Snoozeleums for a hundred husbands," she retorted.

"I'm glad to know it in time," Mallory said. "You'd better give me back that wedding ring."

Marjorie's heart stopped at this, but her pride was in arms. She drew herself up, slid the ring from her finger, and held it out as if she scorned it: "With pleasure. Good afternoon, Mr. Mallory."

Mallory took it as if it were the merest trifle, bowed and murmured: "Good afternoon, Miss Newton."

He stalked out and she turned her back on him. A casual witness would have said that they were too indifferent to each other even to feel anger. As a matter of romantic fact, each was on fire with love, and aching madly with regret. Each longed for strength to whirl round with outflung arms of reconciliation, and neither could be so brave. And so they parted, each harking back fiercely for one word of recall from the other. But neither spoke, and Marjorie sat staring at nothing through raining eyes, while Mallory strode into the Men's Room as melancholy as Hamlet with Yorick's skull in his hands.

It was their first great quarrel, and they were convinced that the world might as well come to an end.

FORGER DECLARES HIS INNOCENCE

A near relative of Brokaw is quoted as saying that he believed the man innocent until he came here and talked to some of the bankers who had positively identified Brokaw as the man who had swindled them. Then his doubts about Brokaw's innocence began to waver. He is said to have told a local man that for the past year or two Brokaw had done little or no work but at the same time he had plenty of money. Brokaw is said to have asserted that he won the money gam-

WHAT IT IS.

A. W. Conner's Work With Boys and What It Stands For.

Next week A. W. Conner, a man of national reputation will be in Seymour all week in the interest of boys.
His afternoon meetings at the close of school will be for the boys themselves and at night he will speak to the men and women. All these meetings are free of charge and will be held in the various churches of the city.

In speaking of his work Mr. Conner in the Christian-Evangelist defines his purpose and outlines what his work is. He says:

First: It is educational. The boy grows, and while growing, ten thousand forces are brought to bear upon him in the process of his becoming a man. Many times these forces are at war with each other and with the boy. Ignorance blinds the loyal and makes enemies of those who should be friends. The Boys' Friend Movement causes parents to make a personal study of the boy problem;
induces fathers to shoulder the responsibility they have loaded on others ever since Sunday Schools, clubs and institutions have been invented;
awakens in every community a spirit of friendship for all boys; arouses public conscience to a sense of the impending perils of the home such that the crime of parental delinquency is placed in the category of covenant breaking and bank defaulting.

Second: It is aggressive and jeon-o-elastic. Certain erroneous ideas and customs that have entrenched themselves in the home, church and social life of the day, to the injury of the young, are assailed without fear or favor. The attack is made from a viewpoint that makes the argument overwhelming and unanswerable.

Third: It is formative and inspirational. The boys' ideas are organized and he is inspired to make a personal struggle for the highest ideals.
He receives practical lessons and religious impressions from which he will never be able to free himself. The friends of the boy are given an uplift that means the transformation of many homes.

Fourth: It is a demonstration of the possibility and practicability of church union, and that along most vital lines; for the most successful campaigns are those in which all the churches of the community participate. At the time when churches are being brought face to face with the boy problem, cannot the people who,
for a century, have striven for a Christian union, contribute to the churches and the world at large a solution of the problem that will be as free from sectarian strife and partisan prejudice as the gospel of the world's Saviour? Such a contribution, I humbly hope, the Boys' Friend Movement may prove to be. To show that this hope is not without foundation a few comments on the movement are submitted herewith.

Fifth: It is far-reaching. In the progress of a campaign of a week we secure vital information concerning hundreds of boys, the most effective and direct avenues for religious workers, reaching many homes that are out of touch with the church. As to the other effects of the campaign I recall the statement of a Baptist minister, made in the presence of an audience of perhaps 2,000 people. He said: "I count that the seven days' Friend campaign' has done more lasting good for the city than all the revival meetings held by the churches the past year; and I am not forgetful of the fact that we have been very successful in revival meetings. The splendid results of this movement will be appearing fifty years from this day." The statement was approved or at least it was passed without a demur on the part of his associate pastors.

Will Do Cash Business.

I have decided from the 22nd day of April on to do a strictly cash business on coal and all kinds of feed, so please don't ask for credit. It takes entirely too much on hand to do a credit business and makes entirely too much office work. I am carrying at the present time a very heavy stock that I will sell for cash at a very low price. All those knowing themselves indebted to me please call and settle.

Notice.

Having closed out our stock of Furniture, Carpets and Stoves I have decided to close up our book accounts. All those knowing themselves indebted to me will please call at the old place of business and arrange for settlement at once.

Yours truly,
FRANK J. VOSS.
